Services Overview

Severity Definition

Sierra Wireless is committed to delivering the highest level of support to our customers. To help us manage support requests, the following severity scale is used to categorize the impact of issues to our customers' operations. Our Customer Support team uses these guidelines to ensure that our customers receive the best support possible, and that all issues are addressed in a timely fashion, appropriate to the severity level of the issue.

CRITICAL: The Sierra Wireless Product and/or Service is down for a customer's entire or major portion of their deployment. The issue is persistent or unrecoverable. The customer's business operation is severely disrupted. There is no workaround available to the issue.

MAJOR: The Sierra Wireless Product and/or Service is severely degraded, or a major product function is not operating per specification. The issue is persistent or reproducible. The customer's business operation is impacted. There is no practical workaround available for the issue.

MINOR: The Sierra Wireless Product and/or Service is not fully operating per specifications while the customer operational impact is minimal or there is a workaround to issue that would otherwise be Critical or Major; also applicable to questions and requests for information.

Resolution and Software Policy

The resolution to an issue, regardless of the severity level, might take the form of an upgrade, downgrade, maintenance release, patch, configuration change(s), hardware replacement, or other remedial actions that the Customer Support team considers appropriate. Updates on progress to developing a solution will be provided as agreed to between the customer, and the Customer Support team.

Support on software related issues will only be provided on versions no older than 2 software versions from the latest current released version.

Scope of Support

Sierra Wireless does not develop custom applications for AirLink customers, whether using ALEOS Application Framework (AAF) or container application on AirLink OS embedded software. Customers interested in developing such applications for their use case should contact a 3rd party vendor.

As a result, Sierra Wireless does not provide support and/or troubleshooting for applications developed by 3rd party vendors. Customers are invited to contact their developer directly for that purpose. Sierra Wireless will support said vendors to ensure that the interfaces/APIs used to enable custom applications are not at fault.

Sierra Wireless does not design nor implement network solutions. However, Sierra Wireless can recommend 3rd party vendors.

Sierra Wireless does not troubleshoot customer's network environments not related to AirLink products (e.g. not looking at packet capture outside of AirLink routers).

Sierra Wireless does not configure devices/services to be used with our products (e.g. we can't support customers asking us to set up their CAD system to work with our AirLink router but we will assist in configuring the necessary settings on the AirLink router)

Finally, Sierra Wireless will only provide technical support for the current and the previous two major releases of the embedded software running on its routers, or the current and previous two major releases of AM/AMM or ACM.
